New Breakfront unit adds design appeal

(ref: PJH267 / MARCH 2009)

The Kitchen Group has launched a new range of unit sizes under its popular K Kitchens brand, including a 300mm Breakfront Base Unit, opening up a whole new window of design possibilities throughout the collection.

This new feature unit is angled and offers the K Kitchen customer greater design versatility and choice over kitchen layouts throughout the extensive portfolio of over 30 kitchen furniture ranges.

Distributed exclusively by the PJH Group, the K Kitchen Breakfront Base Unit is also available with a practical 300mm Pull-out Wirework System option. This two-tier wirework accessory is ideal for maximising space and keeping cupboards organised and efficient.

The addition of the angled Breakfront base unit to the range is also joined with a new 300mm angled wall unit – ideal for teaming up with each other and creating a balance between floor and wall.

Amanda Watson, kitchen product manager for the Kitchen Group, said:
“The new 300mm angled units can be used for flexible space-saving solutions in awkward shaped rooms - or they can simply be used to create interest or highlight a particular feature within the kitchen.”
